The New Words to the Doxology

You may have been wondering why we're singing different words to the Doxology. A Doxology in the Christian tradition is a Trinitarian song of praise. The words that we are used to singing were written by Thomas Ken in 1674. Over the past few years, Christian leaders have realized that using too much gender-based language in worship was actually harmful to some and preventing them from truly participating in worship. For example, a person may have an unconscious bias against the 'Father' because of their experience with an abusive father. And because we must make every effort to remove barriers from worship, whenever we can, we use gender-neutral language. Hence, the new words to the Doxology which were written by Reverend Ed Pettis sometime in the last 50 years during his ministry. These words still celebrate the Holy Trinity without using gender-specific language. Hope and pray this helps.

Announcements

NOTES FROM BEYOND THE PEWS

Thoughts from Pastor Paul

Dear Siblings in Christ,

Hope and pray you all are doing well, are staying safe and are feeling blessed and that 2024 is treating you well thus far.

Wanted to talk this week about our last Sailboat Church class. It was all about our boat, also known as the church. Joan Gray reminds us that the church is more than a building. It's even more than just a group of people getting together once a week. She reminds us that the church is called to be the body of Christ. And as Christ is both fully human and fully divine, Gray writes, "The church, as Christ's body, also is both divine and human. As a divine, God-ordained movement, it is holy because it is created and powered by God. Jesus Christ promises to make himself known in the world through the church. God, not human beings, created the church. Because of this, the church is more than an organization of people who enjoy getting together to do religious exercises and good works. The church is a divine, even supernatural, community gathered by God to do God's work."¹ God created the church to continue the work of Jesus, to share God's love, grace and mercy and to the world of man that was, and is, broken by sin. As Gray stated, "In his suffering-servant death on the cross, Jesus gave birth to the church. He is the captain of our Sailboat. His cross is its mast. He calls believers to live as sailors, setting sail by the Spirit and navigating in the flow of God's will. But even if the sails are raised and the sailors are ready, a Sailboat has to have wind in order to sail."² And it is the Holy Spirit that was breathed into the disciples that fills our raised sails, moving us closer to God's kin-dom, helping us to do God's work throughout creation.

Gray reminds us that the early church didn't always get it correct. But, when they allowed the Holy Spirit to move them forward, they were able to do wonderful things throughout God's creation. As Gray reminds us, "The Advocate that Jesus had promised did for them what they could not do for themselves and, before long, blew them out of Jerusalem to change the world forever. And they did it, not with their own wealth, wisdom, and power but through participating with the Holy Spirit in Jesus' resurrection life and power."³ When we follow the Holy Spirit, we do things, not for our own personal gain, but for the mission work that God calls us to. If we are there for our own causes, if we are not out in our communities working to make God's creation a better place, then it is as if we are not even out on the water, but rather still tied up at the dock. This is counter to what God calls the church to do. These are neither rowboat nor sailboat churches; instead, they are more like pleasure barge churches serving their own purpose instead of God's.

And while the pleasure barge churches are still tied to the docks, there are other churches that understand that God requires them to get out on the water and do God's work. The problem with many churches is that they do so with little prayer, discernment, listening for the Spirit, or dependence on God to direct and provide. These are the rowboat churches. As Gray stated, "...without centering their efforts in these God-honoring practices, rowboat churches come up with projects that seem good to them and carry them out with the resources at their disposal. They settle for what they can do in their own power. These efforts at mission may seem successful on the surface. However, because they do not involve a partnership with God, they bear little lasting fruit for God's reign in the world. As Jesus said, "Without me, you can do nothing" (John 15:5)." As a church, we must seek to always do God's work, and we must also not forget that God, the Holy Trinity, must drive all we do.

So, if you are wondering what a church is supposed to do with the power of the Holy Spirit in its sails, well, come and join the conversation in the Christian resource room following fellowship time after every worship.

I am so thankful for each of you. Please take care of yourselves and be kind to those around you, and yes, that includes yourself. If you'd like to hear from me, please give me or the church office a call and let me

Our Session Has a New Look!

"We have different gifts, according to the grace given to each of us. If your gift is prophesying, then prophesy in accordance with your faith; if it is serving, then serve; if it is teaching, then teach; if it is to encourage, then give encouragement; if it is giving, then give generously; if it is to lead, do it diligently; if it is to show mercy, do it cheerfully." (Romans 12:6-8, NIV)

In case you missed it last time, here's the list of church teams from your FPC Astoria Session. If you feel called to be a part of any of these teams, please let one of your Session members or Pastor Paul know.

Join us each Sunday following worship in the Christian Resource Room for the book study of Sailboat Church.

Next Class February 4 – Chapter 6

Are we a rowboat church or a sailboat church?

Rowboat churches depend largely on human effort. When church budgets shrink and membership declines, rowboat churches frantically row harder against a current, often frustrated and disappointed at their efforts. Sailboat churches, on the other hand, take up the oars, hoist sails, and rely on the Holy Spirit to guide them.

Arguing that churches should be "sailboats," Joan S. Gray encourages readers to shift concern from the many daily, practical concerns of their local church to fresh ideas that can be found using the guidance of the Holy Spirit. The book includes forty days of sailing prayers, quotes from Scripture, brief reflection questions, and an extensive bibliography that is arranged by theme. Perfect for groups to read together, this book will help leaders reframe their church's mission and practice with the Holy Spirit as their guide.

Continued Prayers for God's Creation

All those touched by mass shootings and other crimes of hate and violence.

The people of Ukraine, the Gaza Strip, and other parts of the world as their lives have been torn apart by war.

Those seeking justice and equality.

Those suffering from oppression and violence.

Those who are forced to flee their homes, risking life and limb for the hope of a better life.

For those who prioritize profit over God's creation, that their hearts be changed to make serving and saving God's creation their one priority.

God's creation as it seeks to survive mankind's exploitation and global climate change.

What Does it Mean to be a CNP Church?

Confident in God's hopeful future and grateful for the ever-widening welcome of the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.), the Covenant Network of Presbyterians seeks an equity still not fully realized for LGBTQIA+ people in church and society, by

Engaging the church to invite all of God's children into safe and welcoming congregational spaces of affirmation, healing, dignity and purpose;

Educating the church to expand our welcome of LGBTQIA+ people, to affirm their gifts for ordained office, and to uphold marriage equality for all; and Equipping the church to bear witness to justice through advocacy and activism at the international, national and local church levels; speaking a prophetic word in anxious and divided times; and standing with others in fighting hate and oppression against any of God's children.

The Covenant Network of Presbyterians calls the church to bear a unified witness to generous hospitality and faithful justice.
